Presentation of Proposed Activity

May 12, 2023

9:00 am – 10:00 am

Dr. Randy opened the conference at Friday morning, 12th of May, 9:00 am via google meet by introducing Sir Rex Nepomuceno and then displaying some works of local visual artist Mang Anto, TULDOK, KUWIT (textured cubism style and technique of painting). Then the sample and suggested activities (LIKHAI) were presented; it was hoped to include several local artists who were experts in their respective fields. There are finances available, however more sponsors for the event are needed. The consent of the following Litera Club artists is required in order for our esteemed artists to publish and paint their works. Dr. Randy also appeals to everyone to work together and attend the celebration of Marinduque's inventive Island culture. The activity is thought to be prepared during the months of June and July. Muling Pagsulong ng Likhang Sining sa Pagsulat is the name of the proposed activity. The meeting did not end as well due to power interruption, but before that all the information and things that are need to be said were all discussed.

Marinduque Island Innovation on local history, cultural studies and religious traditions/heritage education

Abstract

The island of Marinduque is the heart and geodetic center of the Philippine archipelago. Primarily, it is known for two reasons: one is because of the colorful Lenten rites and two due to the mine tailings disaster. Since early 19$^{th}$ century when the moryonan tradition took shape as syncretism of Philippine religious belief in 1807 with Fr. Dionisio Santiago's reenactment of St. Longinus conversion to Christianity and eventual beheading. Fast forward to the 1960s, when a couple of transnational mining companies operated in the province and its demise by 1990s with the collective action of the locals and townsfolks against the corporations. It has been a sacred pact or panata to keep the moratorium to extractive industries. With these backdrop, an emergent alternative is molding the future of the island. Creative Innovation through local history with the republication of Local History of Marinduque and the Battles of Paye with Pulang Lupa during the centennial celebration which coincided with the covid19 pandemic. Likewise, with the permutation of cultural studies and lifelong pedagogies, the graduate school and the community-based outcomes produced some local culture profiles in Gasan and Santa Cruz, likewise a collaboration with Marinduque and Quezon in time for the 500 years of the circumnavigation of the globe and the beginnings of Christianity. Finally in terms of belief systems and worldviews, Marinduque is known as the Lenten mecca of the Philippine archipelago. With the localized observation of lent and the Holy Week focused on the iconic Moryonan rites or popularly known as moriones festival . This ongoing discussion hopes to provide an axis of history, culture and religion as part of island and archipelagic heritage studies. The outcomes of the investigation is a creative innovation of existing and desired, preferred futures hopefully viable to other islands in/ and the archipelago.

Marinduque is the heart-shape and geodetic center among the 7,641 Philippine islands. It belongs to the South Luzon island cluster with Mindoro (west), Palawan and Romblon (south). Primarily, Marinduque is an agro-tourism area with rice and coconut products, high butterfly exports and renowned lenten rites. The island is about 950 square kilometers with 240,000 (2020 census) population composed of six towns and one congressional district. The retelling of Marinduque's origins from the lovers Marina and Garduke who eloped to evade from suitors and rivals until their boat capsized and eventually emerged an island with a likeness of a heart. Then the alternate take of Mariang Malindig whose lovers from faraway kingdoms were turned into smaller islets named after three wise kings, Gaspar, Melchor and Baltazar (in Gasan). Marinduque was once part of the Balayan (modern day Batangas) during the 1500s and likewise under Mindoro from 17$^{th}$ to 19$^{th}$ century before being established as a separate province by 1902 and became part of Tayabas from the North (now Quezon) eventually being reestablished in February 21, 1920. The province's namesake is from Mt. Malindig, before malindog or marinduk meaning tall or to stand. According to Marinduque's tourism masterplan, the six towns would be divided into four clusters: island (Santa Cruz), heritage (Mogpog, Gasan and Boac), adventure (Marinduque wildlife Sanctuary) and wellness (Buenavista and Torrijos). Marinduque for the better or worse is mineralized with many mining claims Marcopper and Consolidated Mines Inc being the most significant along with earlier concessions of iron deposits. Perhaps one of the reasons, Marinduque folks are faithful and spiritual which in turn sprang the traditions of moryonan, tubong and kalutang. Moryonan is probably brought by Padre Dionisio Santiago, based on many narratives of local historian Senen Livelo, with Manong Bento, sacristan mayor became Longhino along the first seven moryons as Mogpog became separate visita from Moneserrat de Marinduque (Boac, capital town). Meanwhile, tubong or putong is a social practice as healing ritual could have been precolonial in nature with babaylan (high priestess) render songs, dances and music. While kalutang serve a less spiritual purpose but a pastime and form of entertainment. From the creative, maestro Tirso Serdeña the founder of Pangkat Kalutang discovered and innovated the sounds, rhythm and notes of the bayog Pterospermum Acerofolium Willd and twatingan Pterospermum obliqum instrument. In recent times, visitors and tourists are welcomed by the locals with putong/ tubong usually during the holy week from palm Sunday to Easter Sunday with Moryons either with bulaklakan (handcrafted flowers helmets) and roman (more modern) roaming the streets with their choice of weapons and kalutang to serenade the townsfolks for Longhino's beheading and funeral. Before, at the balanacan port there is a tableau of Longhino's beheading (pugutan) which is a spectacle during the via crucis (way of the cross) , based on St. Longinus the roman captain who pierced Christ while nailed on the cross, professed his faith after being miraculously healed and for that paid his life in debt. Nowadays moryons are the subject of murals, public art, underwater sculpture and even boundary marker and souvenirs.

4. Retaso by Anto Monteagudo shows the faithfuls with candles during a procession with a guiding light

6. Moryon 4 (2020) not because there are four masks but fourth in the series. The moryon came from the Spanish word for visor or helmet with varying Romano and Bulaklakan with different textures as background

5. Mangingisda deals with the theme air, land and sea. With the fisherfolk, the boat and the fish each has a breathing soul or spirit.

7.pre pugutan. Before the beheading of Longhino, there are preparations and rituals to take to have a blessed and prosperous year.

8.Indigenous. The ancestors of moryons didn't have any materials like wood, paint, glittery paper apart from plants, leaves and ornate flowers.

9. Bulaklakan feature. Young and old, ladies and men don these moryons as testament of their sacred vow or panata

3.Nuestra Salvador icons. Moryons are used as hand props instead of the actual living, person. The religious objects in Gasang-gasang street dancing is also represented by the festival queen or bearer of the image.

2. Festival queen. Connects the deep religiousity and festive elements compared to the serene and silentscape of the holy week.

1. Via crucis. Kalbaryuhan (way of the cross) also makes use of moryon soldiers to make christ suffer with the high priest and scribes look on during the cenaculo performance which reenacts the last supper and events leading to the crucifixion.

*Ang kuwento ni Lolo Kiko ay tungkol sa kasaysayan ng ating lalawigan sa pagitan ng huling bahagi ng ika-20 na siglo at pabubukas ng ika-21 siglo. Hinubog ng pampublikong paaralan si Francisco Labay, bilang mag-aaral at kinalaunan ay bilang guro hanggang sa maging lokal na historyador. Grandpa Frank's Stories is about history of the province of Marinduque between the last period of the 20th and the opening of 21st century. Franciso Labay was molded by the public school system as a student then and later as an educator himself to become a local historian. During the occasion of the Marinduque centennial of separation from Quezon (Tayabas) then, it is but fitting to make room for Grandpa Frank's stories for the next generation which made the province proud for the victory on both occasions against the Americans. First during the Battle of Paye on July 31, 1901 and second time around for the Battle of Pulang Lupa, the same year. Before the advent of internet and online sources, long before Grandpa Frank is already the main source for students, the young, professionals and researchers who are interested with local history. Grandpa Frank's stories is the go to for this who are seeking answers and clarification for local history of Marinduque. There is always a wealth of exchange of narratives and details for those who are willing to listen and engage with Grandpa Frank's stories.

Gasan CMAP summary and Recommendation

The Local Cultural Profile of Gasan was materialized through the grant from the National Commission for Culture and the Arts (NCCA) in 2020 with the steering of LGU Chief Vicky Lim and Dr. Rex Asuncion along with the Gasan Culture and Arts Association (GASCUAA). The scoping was undertaken as early as 2019 and social preparations were made in 2020 until the actual training by February 8 to 12, 2021 in coordination with the Marinduque State College.

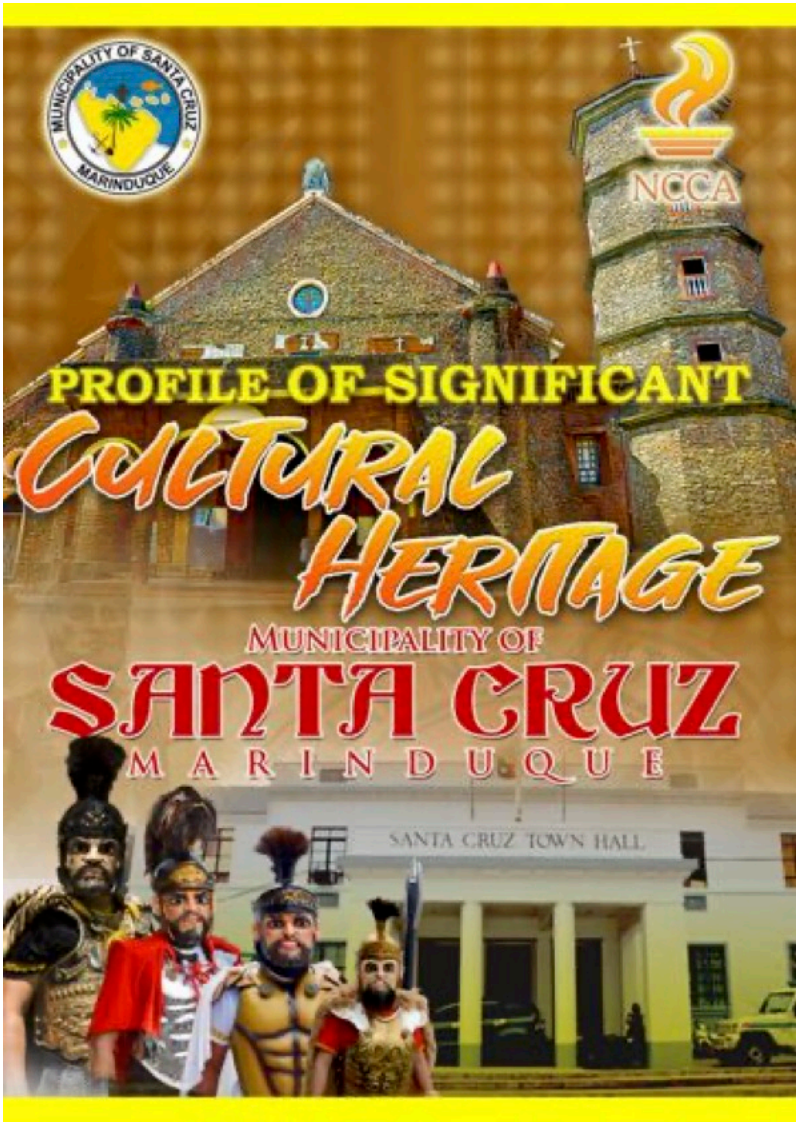
- Santa Cruz



The Local Cultural Profile of Santa Cruz was made possible with the grant from the National Commission for Culture and the Arts (NCCA) in 2020 through the initiative of Mayor Antonio L. Uy, Jr. and Councilor Krenessa P. Constantino. Training of mappers was conducted prior to the actual mapping from October to November 2020, in collaboration with the Marinduque State College for the validation procedures.

Foreign language → cultural inventory, heritage items

- Marinduque
- Quezon

By the year 2021, the archipelago is going to commemorate 500 years of the Battle of Mactan and Christian inculturation. Incidentally the event is preceded by the quadricentennial of the Tayabas town amidst the myriad of interruptions brought about by the pandemic. To move forward the said occasion, Marinduque's capital town is also gearing towards its 400th foundation by 2022 since the establishment of the visita Monserrat de Marinduque in 1622. Before the present day capital city of Lucena, the centre of commerce and civilization of Quezon is Tayabas. After the succeeding Spanish expeditions to Luzon, the cultural center and cradle of the province could be traced to the coastal town of Unisan.

EdM01: Basic Foreign Language in Nihongo/ NIppongo or Japanese Language and Culture involves the study the Hiragana alphabet with a chart with three tables: sound of 50, turbid and murky sounds along with ya row and i- column combination. The first set of deliverables are 10 practice writing sheets based on table 1: gojuon or sound of 50.Then the next set of deliverables would be the gojuon flash cards to based on the group assignment on iconic heritage icons in the specific upload and lowland towns of Marinduque. Finally the last set of deliverables is pecha kucha style of presentation with 20 seconds per each slide with a total of 20. The pecha kucha slides would also be consistent with the assigned heritage items from the respective towns.

The class size of the current semester is almost 50 with majority of the learners are from the MAEd program with some EdD learners. Since the mode of delivery is flexible and remote, the learners were divided into four. The EdD learners drew lots who would take on what particular district among the four districts in Quezon. They obliged with the scheme and decided to fill-up at least three forms based on the Philippine Registry of Cultural Properties per district. The PRECUP form no.1 concerns tangible immovable properties or built heritage, PRECUP form no. 2 is about tangible movable heritage and the last, PRECUP form no. 3 involves intangible cultural heritage.

In the end, despite everything about Covid19, there is still a persisting and enduring hope that everything shall pass. Hopefully, the outcomes would be a testament of diversity, creativity and inclusivity of heritage, culture and arts in Marinduque for the next century. With the 400 iconic heritage items of Quezon, it would be a best present and most positive outcome of the pandemic during the next 100 years. Just like Lucena and Unisan, Tayabas then and Quezon now, local heritage would endure and persist until we traverse to the better normal. Likewise with 100 iconic heritage items of Marinduque, it would be a best present and most positive outcome of the pandemic during the next 100 years. Just like Mt. Malindig, Marinduque would endure and persist until we traverse a better normal.

Religious tradition/ heritage

- Moryonan/ moriones
- Lenten season/ kuwaresma
- Holy week/ semana santa/ mahal na araw

Moryon linguistics: morion helmet, moro yon
Moriones – sa Marinduque, ang isinadulang kasaysayan ni Longhino tuwing Linggo ng Pangkabuhay (UP Diksiyonaryong Filipino)

Cultural Significance: social, historical, political, spiritual, scientific, economic Intangible cultural heritage – domain no. 3 social practice, festive event
Spiritual – moryonan is a traditional panata and practice that re-enacts the biblical story of Longinus who become a faithful Christian from being a fierce and cruel centurion. He fortified his faith in Catholicism. It is also a form of penance to empathize with the pain and suffering of Jesus Christ.

Historical – moryonan is a tradition that originated in 1807 that has been practiced for more than 200 years now. it emphasizes the biblical story of the one-eyed blind Roman centurion named Marcus Longinus who was designated to crucify and execute Jesus Christ. He stabbed Jesus on the side with a spear where droplets of his blood dripped into Longinus' eye. After which, his blind eye healed. Longinus then proclaimed his faith and converted to Christianity. With his new faith, he left the army but got arrested and later sentenced to be beheaded.

Aesthetics – moryonan as Gasan is aesthetically significant because of its identity as a moryonan place in the province displaying handcrafted colorful masks and costumes to the delight of spectators. The town of Gasan also organized a contest for the most original Moryon, most artistic Moryon and best giant Moryon. Such is only practiced in the town of Gasan.

social – as Lenten season approaches, a large volume of tourists and guests visit the province especially the town of Gasan to witness its rich cultures and traditions that focus on the Moryonan or Moriones rites and other activities such as daily parades of Moryon and giant Moryon, processions of saints and images, pugutan, pagsusunong ng Pupuwa, pataraka and the Gasang-gasang easter Sunday street dancing festival.

socio-economic – the influx of visitors and tourists are very evident during the Lenten season. This generates income for the economy and boosts the tourism business of the town and of the province as a whole. Through tourism demands, local citizens can showcase and sell their local products, goods and souvenirs.
Gasan local culture profile

Spiritual – para sa mga Marinduqueños, ang pagsali sa pagmomoryon ay isang panata o isang pagpapahayag ng debosyon, sakripisyo at pasasalamat sa Diyos

Historical – bahagi ng kasaysayan ng bayan ng Santa Cruz ang taunang Moryonan dahil ito ay isa nang tradisyon ng pagpapanata ng mga mananampalatayang Romano Katoliko
Socioeconomic – ang taunang tradisyon ng moryonan ay isang pangturismo dahil marami na ang dumadayo upang makita ito. Dahil marami ang tao dumadagsa sa Moryonan, naging pagkakataon ng mga maliliit na Negosyo upang kumite kasama na ang paggawa ng mga maskara.

aesthetic – maganda ang mga maskara at kasuotan ng mga nagmomoryon. Ang mga maskara ay may iba't ibang hitsura ng galit na mukha ng Romanong sundalo.
Santa Cruz local culture profile

Excerpts from Santa Cruz Local Culture Profile on Moryonan

Spiritual - for Marinduqueños, to become a moryon and being involved with moryonan is a sacred vow (Panata) or an expression of devotion, sacrifice and gratefulness to the lord.

Historical - part of Santa Cruz' history is the annual Moryonan, mainly because it is already part of the tradition of penitence and the Catholic faith.

Socioeconomic - the yearly tradition of moryonan is also a tourist attraction because there is a number of tourists who visit Marinduque to get a feel and experience it for themselves. Also, another reason for observing the lenten rites, there are also micro to small enterprise who thrive during the time of the year in particular those who make and sell moryon masks.

Aesthetic - the moryon mask is aesthetically pleasing, even the attire of the moryon is equally a sight to behold. The moryon masks have different features like an angry face of Roman soldiers.

Moriones festival: Alejandro Roces
From 1960 to the succeeding three years, Alejandro Roces, a national artist and former secretary of education, along with Alfredo Roces, his brother and a prominent cartoonist, illustrators and painters Mauro Malang, Carlos "Botong" Francisco, Nonoy Marcelo and Gene Cabrera as well as journalists, photographers, columnists and writers visited the town. Alejandro Roces' group promoted the Moryonan and revived the dying tradition and with the help of media, covered it for the world to see.

Putting moriones in perspective
"the open forum discussion sidetracked onto Moryonan identity and issues of cultural appropriation and commoditization."

- Parallel observance of moriones
- The idea of institutionalizing through legal interventions the moryonan tradition as unique and original to the province alone
- Additional points as a reaction or commentary

"the issue of moriones "ownership" is not about Mindoro contesting Marinduque's claim as the origin of the traditions, but rather how the latter can assert its cultural property rights and protect the moriones from potential forms of cultural appropriation."

The Mindoro centurions – the level of touristic commoditization through a prized costume competition and without much regard for traditional artistry, symbolism, and religious significance associated with the morion masks such as the bulaklakang moryon in Mogpog, the Mindoro centurions can be seen nothing short of cultural appropriation.

Commoditization – is it appropriate and necessary to bring moryon masks and attires during tourism – or economic-related trade fairs and public exhibitions/ displays outside of Marinduque?
Manifest/ latent functions

The moryonan as Lenten rite
The manifest or intended function of moryonan as a devotion and penance during Holy Week provides a more religious understanding of the tradition that is tied to the Roman Catholic religion and biblical narratives.

The moriones as festival
The moryon mask image has also been widely commercialized in the form of tourism paraphernalia and souvenirs, because it is directly associated with the province's identity and traditions.

The moryonan as indigenous
Notably, the bulaklakang moryon employs symbolic representation through its flower headgear designs and is relatively gentle and gender-neutral as opposed to a fierce-looking male roman legionnaire.

- Seemingly become all-encompassing to include a series of penitence during semana santa, other than the parade of penitents in moryon attires alone.

Articulating the sacred in moryonan

- Define what exactly is sacred about the moryonan: what forms of commodification are ethical and acceptable or not? And at what level of external displays for tourism gains constitute promotion as opposed to appropriation?
- If the moryonan culture and tradition is to remain viable for tourism development without jeopardizing authenticity and minimizing unequal transactions between hosts and guests, moryonan should be promoted and take the form of pilgrimage tourism.

Conclusion and recommendation

Creative innovation for Marinduque island in terms of local history, cultural studies and religious tradition/ heritage education. Based on the initial results of having tangible output from the centennial project like that of History of Marinduque and Kuwento ni Lolo Kiko. In addition, the conduct of cultural mapping projects in Marinduque and heritage inventory in Quezon culminated with local culture profiles in Gasan and Santa Cruz along with double volumes of MarinduQuezon presented during the 10th Tayabas Studies Conference in celebration of 400 years of Pueblo de Tayabas and 100 years of Marinduque's separation from Quezon. Finally, the dynamics of studies about moriones and moryonan is still needing some consolidation and consensus. According to the TIPPING guide, the existing innovation ecosystem is established with respective Local Governments, Marinduque State College and appropriate cultural agencies have been contributing significantly to the Studies about history, culture and religion. Although there are eight strategies, the yielded new innovation system would be needing a robust publication and more participation from the church and civil society organization within and beyond moriones or moryonan tropes. It is hereby recommended to improve, enrich and enhance the following TIPPING strategies: working with the creative sector, long-term cooperation w/ SMEs and NGOs and foster the import export of knowledge.

Prior to the 7th Abaca festival, Catanduanes made it as host of the Philippine Association for the Study of Culture, History and Religion (PASCHR) as its lone State University to cement its bid for internationalization. Catanduanes State University (CatSU) President Dr. Patrick Alain Azanza, a sociologist himself, underscored the significance of knowing ones culture and society with a variety of perspective from May 18 to 20.

CatSU convened more than 50 researchers from higher education institution from here and abroad to make a better understanding of the Happy Island, the Philippine archipelago and beyond. Known as the Abaca capital of the country, Catanduanes weaves culture, history and religion. As Hon. Samuel Laynes who was represented by his vice mayor emphasized each town especially that of Virac as the province's capital the various contribution to culture and industry. Likewise, Hon. Joseph Cua was represented by a provincial board member, the good governor remarked the partnership of CatSU and local government to make the Catanduanon happier.

On the part of PASCHR, put up an impressive roster of local and international scholars such as Dr. Sophana Schrichampa of Mahidol University, Thailand; Dr. Randy Nobleza, Island Innovation Ambassador of Marinduque; Dr. Vibha Agniihotri from University of Lucknow of India; the eminent historian, Dr. Danilo Gerona of Partido State University and from CatSU's own Dr. Ramon Felipe Sarmiento.

There were at least 4 parallel sessions on biographies of localities; bodies as sites of meaning-making; crises make history; language and media representation; performing local identity during the first day. In addition, there was a parallel session about ethnolinguistics; Filipino religiosity; religion and contemporary imperatives and meaning-making through the passages of everyday life on the second day. Moreover, there would be a PASCHR business meeting to discuss the next conference for the 10th year of the organization from its inaugural conference in 2014. The Catanduanes Provincial and Virac Municipal Government would be hosting a fellowship night for the in-person participants. On the last day, there are also parallel sessions on literature as social practices of meaning-making; literature and contexts; ethnobotany and imperatives of very recent history then a closing program would ensue.

Prior to the 7th Abaca festival, Catanduanes made it as host of the Philippine Association for the Study of Culture, History and Religion (PASCHR) as its lone State University to cement its bid for internationalization. Catanduanes State University (CatSU) President Dr. Patrick Alain Azanza, a sociologist himself, underscored the significance of knowing ones culture and society with a variety of perspective from May 18 to 20.

CatSU convened more than 50 researchers from higher education institution from here and abroad to make a better understanding of the Happy Island, the Philippine archipelago and beyond. Known as the Abaca capital of the country, Catanduanes weaves culture, history and religion. As Hon. Samuel Laynes who was represented by his vice mayor emphasized each town especially that of Virac as the province's capital the various contribution to culture and industry. Likewise, Hon. Joseph Cua was represented by a provincial board member, the good governor remarked the partnership of CatSU and local government to make the Catanduanon happier.

On the part of PASCHR, put up an impressive roster of local and international scholars such as Dr. Sophana Schrichampa of Mahidol University, Thailand; Dr. Randy Nobleza, Island Innovation Ambassador of Marinduque; Dr. Vibha Agniihotri from University of Lucknow of India; the eminent historian, Dr. Danilo Gerona of Partido State University and from CatSU's own Dr. Ramon Felipe Sarmiento.

There were at least 4 parallel sessions on biographies of localities; bodies as sites of meaning-making; crises make history; language and media representation; performing local identity during the first day. In addition, there was a parallel session about ethnolinguistics; Filipino religiosity; religion and contemporary imperatives and meaning-making through the passages of everyday life on the second day. Moreover, there would be a PASCHR business meeting to discuss the next conference for the 10th year of the organization from its inaugural conference in 2014. The Catanduanes Provincial and Virac Municipal Government would be hosting a fellowship night for the in-person participants. On the last day, there are also parallel sessions on literature as social practices of meaning-making; literature and contexts; ethnobotany and imperatives of very recent history then a closing program would ensue.

PASCHR is officially recognized as the Philippines' national association of the International Association for the History of Religions (IAHR) which has affiliations with UNESCO. As such, it operates under the policies and principles of said parent body, which seeks to promote critical, analytical and cross-cultural study of religion, past and present. The IAHR is committed to the highest standards of social science scholarship and is not a forum for confessional, apologetical, or other similar orientations.

The PASCHR broadly aims to contribute to the formulation of Filipino national identity through interdisciplinary and transdisciplinary research and scholarship on the Philippines' indigenous and folk traditions, as well as their colonial, postcolonial, and contemporary developments and links with Asia and beyond, from the perspectives of culture, history, and religion.

The Catanduanes State University (CatSU) is the premiere institution of higher learning in Catanduanes, an island-province in the Bicol region in the Philippines. Integral to its goal of excellence in instruction, research and extension is the aim of significantly contributing to the greater understanding of the human condition through research in the social sciences that highlights the local but in the context of the national and global. Catanduanes is a picturesque island paradise nestled on the eastern flank of the Bicol peninsula and is the official "Abaca Capital of the Philippines."

CALL FOR PAPERS

In its 9th International Conference of 2023, the Philippine Association of the Study of Culture, History and Religion or PASCHR continues to underscore the points of convergence of scholarships in history, culture and religion, this time in the purview of "meaning-making." The human enterprise then as now is one of a "making sense" of the lived and created reality, the dynamics of which the disciplines of the Humanities and Social Sciences have taken up as their subject of critical understanding.

In this current pluralist, post-modernist, post-truth world engendered and endangered by unabashed fakery (of news, of narratives, of truth), serious and critical scholarship on meaning-making offers the more plausible and fruitful alternative to the massive manufacture of counterfeit understanding. The meaning-making lens embraces both the big picture and the particularities of accounts up-close, but with more attention to the latter. There is now a moving away from grand narratives and a premium for the "small tradition" so as to take account of the full range of richness, diversity and complexity of the world.

The Philippines has long been characterized as the "marriage of the East and West." But the Philippine experience is not about the unproblematic East-West mix-up. It is steeped in complexity. For example, its Western influences came in historically from its geographic East (Spain via Mexico, the United States), while it took Eastern cultural inputs in pre-colonial times from its Western side (China, India and indeed from as far as the Arab world). On top of that, it assumes strong cultural and political affinities with the Southeast. In this year's conference theme, this context is reckoned as "Indo-Pacific" in order to capture such a sprawl and complexity that has so shaped the making sense of Filipino-ness.

The 9th International Conference of the PASCHR will accept paper presentations reflective of the whole gamut of the meaning-making enterprise of Filipino communities, distilled into a variety of narrative and practice strategies, such as but not limited to:

- Historical accounts, ethnographic descriptions, linguistic/literary studies that represent assertions and/or contestations of collective identities

- Accounts of patently or marginally religious narratives and practices (e.g the ritualist and ritual-like) that embody worldviews, ideologies, ontologies

NOTE:

- ✓ Papers may cover any of the historical periods namely the pre-colonial, colonial and contemporary, or their dynamic interfaces
- ✓ Contextualization within the Indo-Pacific sphere is preferred
- ✓ Presentations may be of completed data-based researches, works-in-progress, literature reviews, or of mainly analytical/theoretical expositions.
- ✓ Preference however will be for data-based studies, whether completed or a work-in-progress.
- ✓ Proposals for panel presentation are welcome
- ✓ Papers by graduate and undergraduate college students will be accepted
